We clip the following account of the sad affair from the North Manchester JOURNAL, of June 5th: Great excitement was caused in the city early yesterday morning by another case of suicide. Mrs. Caroline Engle, mother of Mrs. John Lockwood, drowned herself between the hours of four and five by jumping from the suspension bridge into the river. The deed was disbridge into the river. The deed was discovered within a few minutes after it had been committed. At seven her body was found lodged on a stone in the bend of the river, back of C. H. Winton's house and about fifty rods below the bridge, by Mont Kosher and Charlie Signs, two boys who were in a boat.—

They called for help which soon came and the corpse was taken out and carried and the corpse was taken out and carried to the residence of her son-in-law.

Darke county is in a worse muddle over the Childrens' Home matter than Preble county. We predict that Darke county will spend $50,000 before the Home is finished. Preble will not expend quite half as much. Thanks to the practical common sense of the County Commissioners.

No cause can be assigned for the rash act except temporary insanity caused by sickness from which she was just recovering. Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood had heard her moving around the house about four o'clock that morning but thought nothing strange of it and had not missed her when the announcement of her death was brought them.
